Our desire is to make a difference, one family at a time....

A Father IS.....

A father is a person who is forced to endure childbirth without an anesthetic.

He growls when he feels good and laughs very loud when he is scared half-to-death.

A father never feels entirely worthy of the worship in a child's eyes. He is never quite the hero his daughter thinks . . . Never quite the man his son believes him to be...

A father is a person who goes to war sometimes . . . and would run the other way except that war is part of his only important job in his life, (which is making the world better for his child than it has been for him.)

Fathers grow older faster than people, because they, in other wars, have to stand at the train station and wave goodbye to the uniform that climbs onboard. And, while mothers cry where it shows, fathers stand and beam . . .outside . . . and die inside.

Fathers are men who give daughters away to other men, who aren't nearly good enough, so that they can have children that are smarter than anybody's. Knights in shining armor, fathers in shiny trousers. I don't know where fathers goes when they die, but I've an idea that, after a good rest, wherever it is, he won't just sit on a cloud and wait for the girl he's loved and the children she bore. He'll be busy there too . . repairing the stars, oiling the gates, improving the streets, smoothing the way....

Where has the time gone?

It seems just like yesterday that school was beginning and parents were celebrating. Now in a flash school is out and children are free. I have a question that I want to ask you; how are you going to invest your time this summer? In three months will you be pleased with the results of your summer or will you be filled with regret wishing that you had done something different? We need to understand that time is a valuable commodity. Once it is invested, it can't be retrieved.

Time is not like money. If you spend five dollars, you can earn five more later. But once you spend five minutes, they are gone, never to be seen again. Ephesians tells us to redeem the time because the days are evil. The apostle Paul is calling us to maximize our time, but how do we accomplish that goal? It's simple, by spending time with the Father, through prayer, scripture reading, and meditating. This is the best investment of time you could ever make because everything about life spills out of this relationship. If it is strong, your time will be well spent and you will be well on your way to maximizing your life. As you begin this summer season, make sure that you use your time wisely. Remember that you only get one shot at it, so spend your time wisely.

Feast or famine!!!
